Prototype 2 - Local Community Facebook Group Events & Template:
Facebook event suggestions and template for setting up and publishing the event structures.

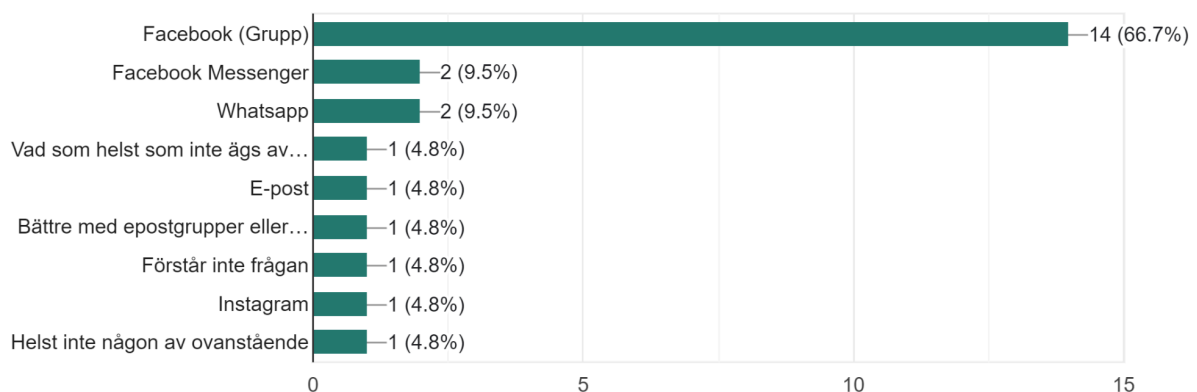

Ideas for features:

In our survey, the majority of respondents, 66%, indicated a preference for using Facebook as the digital social networking platform of choice for energy community projects. This insight provides valuable direction for project planning and outreach strategies.

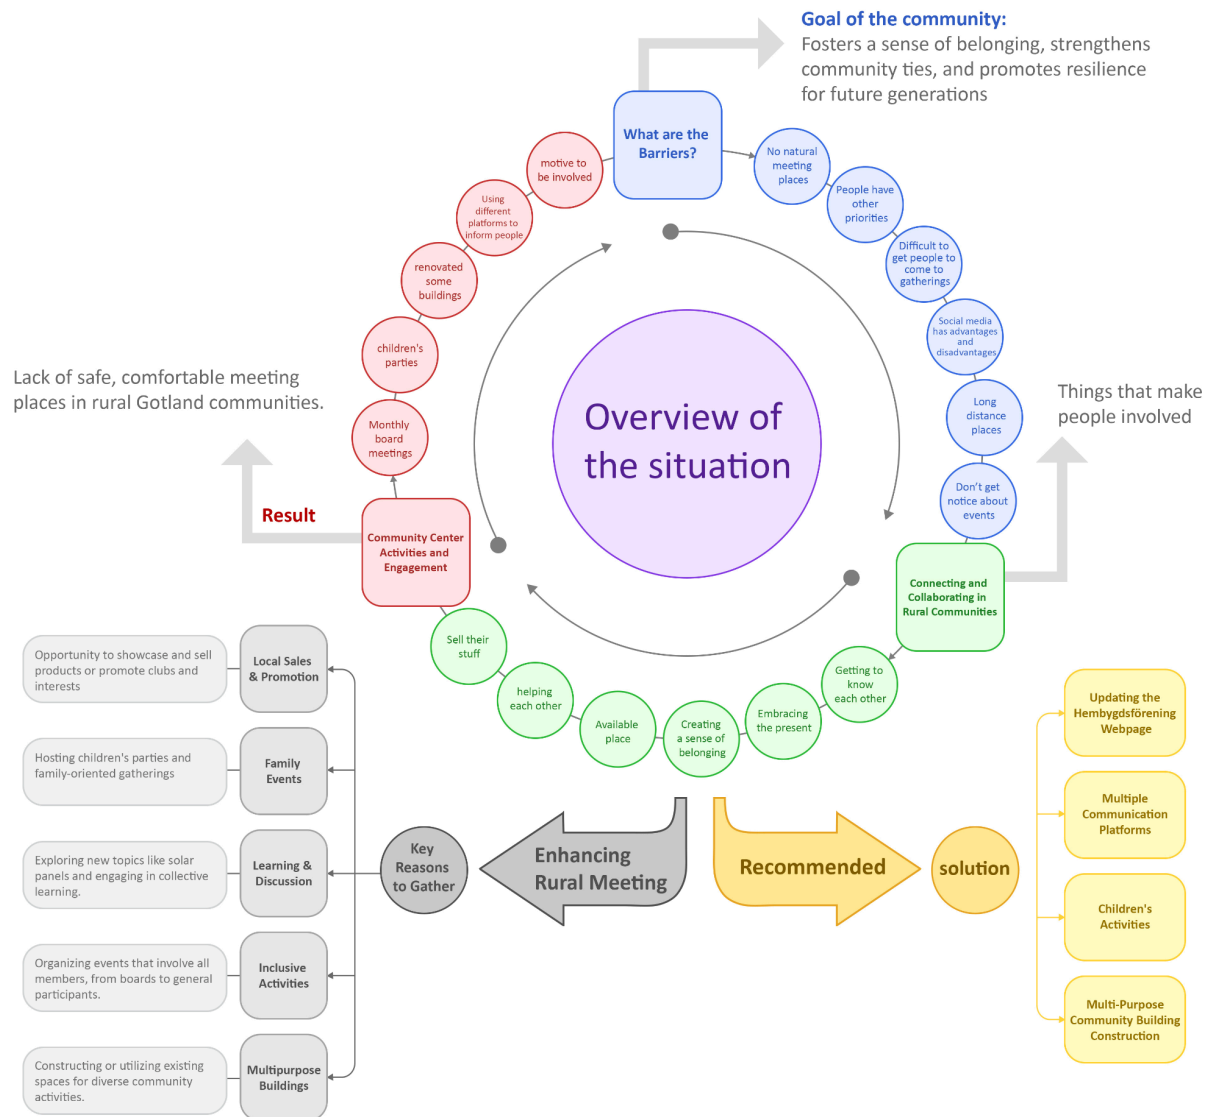

Which digital network would you prefer to use for energy community projects?

Vilket digitalt nätverk skulle du föredra att använda för energi samhälle projekten?

The need for inclusive and valued community spaces is crucial for fostering dialogue and strengthening communal bonds in rural communities like those in Gotland, Sweden. Without such spaces, community engagement is hindered, impacting the ability to tackle local challenges collectively. To address this, our prototype aims to enhance community engagement by forming local networks, balancing formal and informal aspects of meetings, and integrating digital communication channels. Solutions include incentives like local sales and family events, digital networking, and programs for children's involvement. Further development options range from updating websites to constructing (or using existing) multi-purpose community buildings (such as the hembygd.se locations across the country), with a focus on initiatives like the Facebook page called Romabilder based on survey results.

Facebook is a global social media platform facilitating connections and interactions among users through features like profiles, groups, and events. It serves as a valuable space for communities to share ideas and resources, with tools like groups and pages enabling discussions and event organization. Its wide reach and accessibility make it effective for engaging with audiences in real-time, aided by features like live streaming and messaging for instant communication. In summary, Facebook is a powerful tool for building and nurturing communities by providing platforms for connection, communication, and collaboration.

Ideas to make a Facebook community page more interactive:

- 1. Regular Q&A Sessions: Host weekly or monthly live Q&A sessions where community members can ask questions related to the page's topic or theme. This fosters engagement and allows members to interact directly with page admins or experts and community representatives which the session would facilitate the selection of.
- 2. Polls and Surveys: Post polls and surveys to gather feedback, opinions, and preferences from the community. This not only engages members but also provides valuable insights for improving the page and its content.
- 3. Theme Days or Challenges: Create themed days or challenges where members can participate by sharing relevant content, stories, or photos. For example, a "Throwback Thursday" where members share nostalgic memories related to the community's interests.
- 4. User-Generated Content: Encourage members to contribute their own content such as articles, photos, videos, or artwork related to the community's focus. Feature selected submissions regularly to showcase the creativity and diversity of the community.

5. Interactive Live Streams: Host live streams on topics of interest to the community, such as interviews with experts, tutorials, or behind-the-scenes looks. Encourage viewers to ask questions and participate in real-time discussions.
6. Collaborative Projects: Initiate collaborative projects or initiatives that involve members working together towards a common goal. This could be anything from a community fundraiser to a crowd-sourced resource or publication.
7. Virtual Events: Organize virtual events such as webinars, workshops, or panel discussions where members can learn, network, and engage with each other and guest speakers.
8. Featured Member Spotlights: Highlight individual members or contributors periodically by featuring their profiles, stories, or achievements on the page. This not only recognizes their contributions but also encourages others to participate and get involved.
9. Engagement Challenges: Pose challenges or prompts to encourage members to interact with each other, such as sharing their favorite tips, recommendations, or personal experiences related to the community's interests.
